

ANOTHER CASE FOR THE GRAND JURY.

Yesterday morning's Enterprise has the following from its Carson correspondent:

A queer story is told of a prominent aspirant here to a high and responsible position about two years ago. Two women had occasion to watch his residence for several nights and found that he regularly had for a sly visitor a well known lady. When they had the case well made up on the pair they interviewed the gentleman, and soon convinced him of what they knew. He was paralyzed, knowing what might be the result of exposure, and was ready to promise most anything. They offered to keep it a dead secret for $1,000, or they would ruin both parties and annihilate all chances of his being elected to the high and lucrative office he sought. He consulted a lawyer friend who advised him to compromise the matter, and they finally agreed to take $600, which he paid, and breathed easier, although it crippled his purse. Then he went in with the political canvass and got badly beaten for the nomination. This was worse than "rough on rats," so as soon as he could manage to do so he closed out, shook the dust of Carson from his feet and now resides elsewhere.

PUCK ON THE RAMPAGE.

The last number of Puck has a cartoon on the attitude of the Silver Senators. It represents Senators Stanford, Jones, Walcott, Teller, McConnell, Shoup, Washburn and Stewart in Indian costumes leaving a Government reservation to join a hostile Sioux camp. The writing in explanation of the cartoon is: "Eight Republican Bucks Turn Traitors and join the Democratic Free-Silver Sioux."

The only objection Western Republicans see to that cartoon is that they are sorry that Puck was not able to have a dozen or twenty more Senators in the Free Coinage band all walking in the same direction.

In future campaigns the Republicans of the West will use this cartoon as a telling campaign document.

The National Review paid Senator Stewart the following compliments:

There is no discount on Senator Stewart on the silver question. He is true and courageous under all circumstances. It is through the indefatigable efforts of such brave propagandists of financial reform that the cause has been advanced in the Senate and throughout the country.

Much is due to their persistence and indomitable resolution in conducting it to its present encouraging status. They have been wise, discreet and sagacious, and they have not been wanting in the parliamentary tact necessary to carry such measures through.

With such leaders, the friends of the bimetallic standard and free coinage, may well be proud. They are entitled to public confidence and deserve its lasting support through every mutation and change.

Prof. Frank and Wife of the New York Opticians carry the largest stock of the finest artificial eyes made, and have inserted several for different parties here who pronounce it the most perfect and wonderful species of work in that line they have ever seen.

H. H. Coffin, formerly Superintendent of the mill at Belleville, was accidentally shot in the left hand, by the discharge of his gun while out hunting near Tuscarora last week. Amputation was necessary.

The following letters remain uncalled for at the Carson P. O.: Ladies list: Kirstine Jappensen, Katie Mitchell, S. Paquette, R. S. Shoten. Gentleman's List: Billy Bowen, Gue Belle, A. Hudgen, A. Fortorollo.
